

The proposed ruling restricting associations from faxing promotional material to members will cause great expense and inconvenience to the associations these members have voluntarily joined. This ruling should be reconsidered to investigate hardships it will impose on associations simply looking to provide members with information quickly and inexpensively.